Notes

Language tells stories. Unique and individual events are strung together by language, and we have a story. Change the order a little, and we have something new. Similarly, art has a language of its own. The front and back cover designs of this book are an attempt to capture the themes of this practice book through the lens of folk art. The Madhubhani, Worli and Gondh design interweave to showcase our rich cultural heritage that celebrates all life forms and gives a message of sustainable living.
