Virtually True
by - Paul Stewart

- Sebastian Shultz, a 14 years old boy, was travelling in a car which met with an accident and he went into coma.
- He was playing a psycho-drive game on his laptop.
- His head struck against the laptop and his computer saved his memory.
- Michael found the identity between real Shultz and the Shultz of his video games. He played four games to rescue him.
- In the game name Warzone, Michael was able to save Shultz by pulling him into the helicopter.
- Strangely this rescue of the Shultz in the world of games got related to the rescue of the real Shultz from his coma.
- Michael read an article in a newspaper with the heading 'Miracle Recovery'.
- Michael read that a 14-year-old boy Sebastian Shultz was badly injured in a motorway accident.
- A miracle happened. Sebastian Shultz had a miraculous recovery. He rose from the coma, only the previous day. The doctors feared that it might last forever.
- At the time of accident Sebastian Shultz was playing psycho-driven games on his lap-top.
- When he banged his head in the accident, Sebastian had been plugged into the computer.
- Both of them jumped out of the window but found the dragon standing before them. Michael swung his sword in vain and he couldn't prevent the dragon taking Sebastian Shultz with him.