My favourite hero

Good day to one and all. Today, I am going to speak about my favourite hero, Dr. A.P.J. Abdul Kalam.

He was a man from Rameshwaram who dreamt of touching the sky by becoming a pilot. He ended up being one of the most popular Presidents of India.

He was well known for his contributions to science. He was a motivational speaker. He was also an academician and wrote many inspirational books.

He developed missiles AGNI (a ballistic missile) and PRITHVI (surface to surface missile). Thus he was known as the Missile Man of India.

He received doctorates from nearly 40 universities, including Edinburg University and Oakland University.

Switzerland commemorates May 26 as Science Day in memory of APJ Abdul Kalam as it was on this day in 2005 when he visited the country.

Even in his death, Dr. Kalam gave us a message worth remembering. He died doing what he loved the most – teaching and igniting young people’s minds with his words of wisdom. Thank you all for listening to my speech.

Read the passage 3 times and colour a camel for each time:

Once two merchants lost a camel. They met a boy who was passing by and asked him if he had seen it. The boy said he had not seen the camel. He asked, "Was your camel blind in the right eye?" "Yes, he was", said the merchants. "Was it lame in one left foot?", asked the boy. It was!", said the merchants. "Was it's front tooth missing?" asked the boy." yes," they said. "Did it have honey on one side and wheat on the other?". "yes!," they answered. "Please take us to it."

“But, I have not seen your camel,” said the boy “and I do not know where it is”. The merchants got angry and said, “Really! How could you tell us everything about our camel?” “That is my secret”. said the boy.

The merchants took him to the king. The boy told the king that he had not seen it. Then, the king asked him how he knew so much about it. The boy said that the camel had eaten grass only on the left side of the path. So he knew that it was blind. The marks of its one left foot were faint.

This showed that the camel was lame. While eating grass, it had not eaten the grass in the middle. So he learnt that it had lost its front teeth. There were ants carrying grains of wheat on one side of the path and flies eating honey on the other.”
