The Measles Resurgence

1. Autism spectrum disorders (ASD) are a range of psychological conditions characterised by abnormalities in social interaction, behaviour, interests, and communication. The five forms of ASD include Classical autism, Asperger syndrome, Pervasive Developmental Disorder, Rett syndrome, and Childhood Disintegrative Disorder. Although the number of reported cases of ASD have experienced a dramatic increase in the past 25 years, the majority of doctors agree that this increase is due to changes in diagnostic practices and advances in the understanding of psychiatric health.
2. While there is no general consensus among medical professionals about the underlying causes of ASD, theories range from genetic inheritance to environmental factors. One of the most controversial theories to have emerged in recent times is the hypothesis that ASD could be caused by the MMR vaccine, which is an immunization against measles, mumps, 1960". The vaccine is a mixture of three live viruses and is administered via injection to children when they are one year old. By the late 1990's, this vaccination had led to the near-eradication of measles in countries that employed widespread inoculation. However, a combination of spurious scientific data and alarmist media attention led to an entirely preventable resurgence in measles cases in the early 21 st century.
3. The first claims of a connection between the MMR vaccine and autism were made in 1998, when an article in The Lancet a respected British medical journal, reported on eight cases of autism that could possibly be traced back to the administration of an MMR vaccine. The parents of the children in this study contended that the symptoms of autism in their children developed within days of vaccination. During a press conference, Andrew Wakefield, one of the doctors to stop giving combined MMR vaccines, instead advocating for individual inoculations against measles, mumps, and rubella.
4. Following the publication of this article, Wakefield published several follow-up papers that further questioned the safety of the MMR vaccine. An onslaught of media coverage then began. Parents appeared on television sharing anecdotal evidence linking their child's inoculation to the onset of ASD. The popular press quickly seized upon this story: in 2002, over 1200 articles were written about the link between MMR vaccines and ASD. Less than 30% of these articles mentioned that an overwhelming amount of scientific evidence suggested that these vaccinations were completely safe.

- (i) The purpose of parents appearing on the television sharing anecdotal evidence was _____.

2. Read the text carefully and answer the questions:

- i. The choices we make on a daily basis wearing a seatbelt, lifting heavy objects correctly or purposely staying out of any dangerous situation-can either ensure our safety or bring about potentially harmful circumstances.
 - ii. You and I need to make a decision that we are going to get our lives in order. Exercising self-control self-discipline and establishing boundaries and borders in our lives are some of the most important things we can do. A life without discipline is one that's filled with carelessness.
 - iii. We can think it's kind of exciting to live life on the edge. We like the image of "Yeah! That's me! Living on the edge! Woo-hoo!" It's become a popular way to look at life. But if you see, even highways have lines, which provide margins for our safety while we're driving. If we go over one side we'll go into the ditch. If we cross over the line in the middle, we could get killed. And we like those lines because they help to keep us safe, Sometimes we don't even realise how lines help to keep us safe.
 - iv. I'm not proud of this, but for the first 20 years of my life at work, I ignored my limits. I felt horrible physically, most of the time. I used to tell myself. "I know I have limits and that I've reached them, but I'm going to ignore them and see if or how long I can get by with it. "I ran to doctors, trying to make myself feel better through pills, vitamins, natural stuff and anything I could get my hands on. Some of the doctors would tell me, "It's just stress." That just made me mad. I thought stress meant you don't like what you do or can't handle life, and I love what I do. But I kept pushing myself, traveling. speaking engagements and so on-simply exhausting myself.
 - v. Finally. I understood I was living an unsustainable life and needed to make some changes in my outlook and lifestyle
 - vi. You and I don't have to be like everyone else or keep up with anyone else Each of us needs to be exactly the way we are, and we don't have to apologize for it. We're not all alike and we need to find a comfort zone in which we can enjoy our lives instead of making ourselves sick with an overload of stress and pressure.
- (i) According to the author, list 1 reason that 'living on the edge' has become popular.
(1) _____

Less than 30% of these articles mentioned that an overwhelming amount of scientific evidence suggested that these vaccinations were completely safe.

- (i) to support the claim of a connection between the MMR vaccine and autism
(ii) (d) Both (1) and (2) are false

It is clearly given in the passage that the medical professionals have 'not' found the underlying causes of ASD. And due to changes in diagnostic practices and advances in the understanding of psychiatric health, there had been a big 'increase' in the number of cases of ASD. So, both (1) and (2) are false. Hence, (d) is the right answer.

- (iii) The statement conveys that the famous media publishers covered the story in all aspects.
(iv) the changes in diagnostic practices and advances in the understanding of psychiatric health.

(v) (b) (2) and (3)

While symptoms like (1), (4) and (5) are stated in the passage, (2) high fever and (3) bipolar behavior are nowhere mentioned in the passage. Hence, (b) is the right answer.

(vi) True

It is given in the passage that 'The vaccine was a mixture of three live viruses and is administered via injection to children when they are one year old.' Hence, it is true.

(vii) media

(viii) (d) It is mentioned that only 30% of the published articles had an overwhelming amount of scientific evidence that suggested that these vaccinations were completely safe.

Whereas this means that 70% supported the claim of vaccines being unsafe. Hence, (d) is the right answer.

(ix) False.

The MMR vaccine was first developed in the 1960 s.

- (i) According to the author, the person "thinks it's kind of exciting to live life on the edge", so he constantly wants to find excitement in life.
- (ii) (c) 1 and 4
- Explanation: The context shows negligence as the person will 'ignore' the limits and (4) recklessness as the person knows that 'he has reached his limit but still chooses to see how long can he get by with it". It doesn't show any of (2), (3) or (5) options, Hence, option (c) is the right answer.

(iii) possibly dangerous

(iv) (a) advice

(v) (d) stress

Explanation: The term 'stress' is not a colloquial word or any slang. It is a proper English term. Options (a), (b) and (c) are all slangs that are informal. Hence, (d) is the right answer.

(vi) (d) Plastic will turn the world _____ in future.

Explanation: The term 'unsustainable' means a thing that cannot be sustained or lived. Here, (a), (b) and (c) are not the correct statement for the term to fit in while (d) is the correct choice. Hence, (d) is the right answer.

(vii) organise our lives

Explanation: To get something 'in order' means to 'organise' it.

(viii) The most appropriate title for the passage can be 'The need to limit ourselves'.

(ix) False

Explanation: According to the author, he needed to organise his life in a proper way as he was living an unsustainable life.

15. The given pie chart shows the type of various electronic appliances used by average middle class families in old Gurugram.

The given data shows that an average middle class family in old Gurugram preferred to have a TV the most. Second preference happened to be refrigerator. AC, washing machine and laptop fell into almost same category. And the least preferred appliance is microwave. The pie chart shows comparison in the product preferred and it is mainly due to their usage and utility based on the usefulness in lessening the human workload. Laptop stands equal to washing machine and AC as it has become a necessary aid in children education.

To conclude the given chart, it clearly shows TV as the most preferred choice and microwave as the least preferred one. This has helped us in understanding the consumer preferences in case of electronic appliances based on their usability.

The chart shows the number of minutes per day spent by British men and women in doing household tasks. On average, the women spend about four hours doing household tasks whereas the men spend less than two and a half hours. The tasks on which women spend more time than men include cooking, cleaning the house, taking care of the children, and laundry. In doing all these tasks, women spend approximately 200 minutes which is almost three times the time spent by men in these tasks. On the other hand, men spend twice the time than women in doing tasks like gardening and maintenance of odd jobs in the house. Men spend the highest time, almost 50 minutes, in gardening and pet care. While the women spend only 30 minutes for these tasks. The time spent by men in washing, ironing, and sewing clothes is as low as 2 minutes per day as opposed to 25 minutes spent by women. In short, women spend far more time doing household chores than men whilst men prefer to do gardening, pet care, and maintaining odd jobs.

Subject: Concern over growing accidents of Road Rage in Delhi

Sir,

Through the columns of your esteemed newspaper, I would like to draw the attention of the readers towards the serious issue of growing incidents of road rage in Delhi. Now and then, we come across the news of road rage where people start fighting on the roads on trivial issue. People are over-stressed these days and their frustration is often displayed through such incidents. They start quarrelling on a matter of small collision or honking or even on the issue of parking. Generally, the fight starts verbally which turns into a physical fight. Many incidents of serious injuries and death of people have been reported so far and hence it needs immediate attention of everyone.

The government should come forward with strict legal provisions to stop these and the people should also learn to be patient and tolerant in order to make Delhi roads safe to travel.

Thanking you

Yours truly

Dear Kevin

Trust you too are doing well. I am glad to know that you are interested in adopting a pet. Believe me, your life is going to change absolutely after a pet enters your life.

And adopting an otter is one of the best decisions of your life. I advise you to bring your thought into action at the earliest. No doubt, otters prove to be the best companions.

They demand nothing in turn of their unconditional love and company they provide you with. I have been living with Mij for several years now. What I want to share with you today, is that otters are very intelligent and fun-loving animals. The main characteristic of an otter is to extend and spread every drop of water. Mij loves to juggle with small objects with his paws lying on his back. His favourite toy is marbles.

If you want you can accompany me to Basra. I am going there the next week. You too, can get an otter from there.

Believe me it will be a great fun.

Waiting for a positive response from your end.

Yours affectionately

Gavin.

(ii) The young seagull's family tried every possible method to encourage him to fly. His parents understood that their little one needed a little more motivation to achieve his goal of flying. Initially, they tried to threaten the young seagull in many ways but to no avail. The mother gull realized that the need to fly would make the little one do so. She took a piece of fish and started approaching him. But, the mother stopped just beyond his reach. In his eagerness to get the food, the young bird started diving. That made the young seagull fall from the ledge while trying to get the fish. He was able to fly. Thus, the purpose was served. His mother's efforts made him fly. Even though the young seagull's parents starved him, they were succeeded to make his first flight and proved that 'All parental acts are for the betterment of the children'.

21. Answer ANY ONE of the following in about 100-120 words.

(i) Anil was a kind, simple and easy going young man. He was tall and lean in stature and interested in sports like wrestling. He was a writer who wrote for magazines and made money in fits and starts. The narrator met Anil when he was watching a wrestling match. During this match, the narrator started talking to him to make him his friend. Anil was not very rich and could not afford to employ Hari as a cook, yet he became ready to have him in his room on his request. He had the patience and goodness to not only teach Hari to cook but also to read, write and add numbers. Many times he himself made tea and cooked food and served it to Hari Singh. Though he knew that Hari was stealing little bits of money from him, he ignored this fact. He was a very trustworthy person. Even when he earned a large amount of money, he kept the money under his mattress and not under lock and key. He was generous and paid Hari whenever he got some money. Hari had tried to steal the money from him. He was forgiving and he forgave Hari for the theft and continued to be good to him.

- (ii) No doubt, 'A Question of Trust' is a story about the robbery of the robber. Horace Danby was not an ordinary thief. He planned meticulously before attempting a robbery but still he was fooled by a young lady in red who posed herself as the owner of the house. She made him break open the safe without Horace realising that she was a thief. To keep herself safe, she ensured that the fingerprints of Horace were left everywhere on the site. Thus it is true that it is the story about the robbery of the robber.
