The teacher gave an assignment to the students "Go to people you love and tell them i am sorry." It sounded stupid to me but after one week i went to my teacher i confided i didn't have anyone to say those words to but as i began walking down home my conscience started talking, five months ago my friend and i had a vicious disagreement we avoided seeing each other we hardly spoke i convinced myself i should tell my friend i am sorry, at 5.30 in the evening I went to him and said i am sorry a transformation came over my friend his face softened, the arrogance seemed to disappear and he began to cry he hugged me and said i am sorry too but i've never been able to say it.

Answer:

The teacher gave an assignment to the students, "Go to the people you love and tell them I am sorry". It sounded stupid to me but after one week I went to my teacher. I confided I didn't have anyone to say those words to but as I began walking down home, my conscience started talking. Five months ago, my friend and I had a vicious disagreement. We avoided seeing each other. We hardly spoke. I convinced myself I should tell my friend, I am sorry.

At 5.30 in the evening, I went to him and said "I am sorry". A transformation came over my friend. His face softened, the arrogance seemed to disappear and he began to cry. He hugged me and said, "I am sorry too but I've never been able to say it."

Question 4.

My little 10 years daughter Sarah was born with a muscle missing in her foot and wears a brace all the time. She came home jumping up and down one beautiful spring day to tell me that she had competed in "field day"- that's where they have lots of races and other competitive events because of her leg support my mind raced as I tried to think of encouragement for my Sarah i wanted to tell some hard facts of life not letting this to get her down But, before I could get my word out, she said, Daddy, I won two of the races! I couldn't believe that! and then Sarah came out with a declaration, I had an advantage.

Ah, i knew it. i thought she must have been given a head start, some kind of physical advantage, but again, before I could say anything, she said, Daddy, i didn't get a head start... my advantage was that i didn't give in i had to try harder! That's my Sarah.

Answer:

The following words were written on the tomb of the Anglican Bishop of Westminster Abbey: When I was young and free and my imagination had no limits, I dreamed of changing the world. As I grew older and wiser, I discovered that world would not change, so I shortened my sights somewhat and decided to change only my country. But it too seemed immovable. As I grew in my twilight years, in one last desperate attempt, I settled on changing only my family, those closest to me, but alas, I couldn't.

And now as I lay on my deathbed, I suddenly realise: if I had only changed myself first, then as an example I could have changed my family. From their inspiration and encouragement, I could then have been able to better my country and who knows, I may have even changed the world.
