When I was flying over the forest, I heard the deer's voice. She was crying for help. She was trapped in a hunter's net. I told the deer that we all friends will help her.

I hurriedly flew back to my friends and told them about the deer. The mouse said that he will cut the net. So I took him to the deer in my beak. The mouse cut the net and freed the deer. Just then the turtle came there crawling slowly.

Suddenly, the hunter also came there. All of us hid ourselves. But the hunter saw the turtle. He caught him and put him in his sack.

My friends and I came out of our hiding places. We were sad and out of speechless. We saved one friend and lost one!

The deer had a wonderful idea! She said she will pretend to be dead. When the hunter comes to catch her, she will run away. The hunter will chase her. In the meantime, the mouse can make a hole in the sack and save the turtle.

All the friends agreed. The deer lay down. The hunter saw the deer. The deer started running. The hunter threw the sack and ran after the deer. The mouse made a hole in the sack and saved the turtle. The deer hid herself in a bush.
