- (a) On the basis of the archeological sources discuss the inherent features of state structure in Indus Valley Civilisation. (20 Marks)
  - (b) What kind of significances are there of the rituals which were performed in the Vedic age in India.
  - "A number of parameters are used to ascertain the presence of urbanisation in a particular situation." Keeping the above statement in mind evaluate the second urbanization in India. (20 Marks)

Ans 3a) Historians differ on the question of nature of state system of Indies Valley Civilization [IVC]. Various achaeological sources corroborate to various features:

1. The presence of uniform artefacts spread over a large geographical area points towards a centralized entity by Presence of planned cities, citadel, soupt, etc.

2. However, the above contention is questioned by some scholars on account of differences like some cities are walled, some are not Dholowora 3 tiers, some have none, etc.

3. The presence of a large no. of seals & imported arteforts which weren't naturally found in the area like Tinartefacts, laping logar gives evidences regarding the importance of merchant class. Some historians consider the ruler class to be composed of merchants because of their importance.

great Bath, statue of bearded priest found at Moheyo Daro, worship of the Pashufatis the goddess cult points towards the fort that the priesty class was the most dominant one & was perhaps the ruling class

5. The presence of citadels & lower town hoints towards stratification of society with the elite class relaiding on the raised heatform of citadel

Very few arteforts have been found that can be ascribed to any form of way fort that state system was not imperialist in nature of was peace loving sis unlikely that an army was maintained

7. The Haraphon state emphasized on communication & trade as evidently the spread of sulture to such a large geographical area.

8 The Harappon State was welfare Oriented & well managed as depicted by the efficient drainage system & water howesting evidences found at Dholavira.

9. The Moraphan state was a cultival state with atleast a section of people literate as proven by the Maraphan script

Thus, Owing to above refereres, one con conclude that Harappan state system was highly twolved, refined and ahead of its time with respect to other Labitation 3 ones in Indian shit continent.

Vedic Age is characterized by presence of a large no. Of rituels rompont in the society. Starting from the beginning Ky Veda elaborates upon various ritual hymrs of the some is carried forward with explonations in further Vedic texts.

The rauses & methods of various rituals were numerous:

1. Ashamedha yajna was one of the famous rituals of the age, 2to significance lay in declaring the faramountry of the King Is subjugation of other kings on whose tornton, the sacrificial horse treaded upon

2 Rajasiya yajna - Significant for the Orowning of King

3 Vay hayee gajne -> After the coronation of The King, a cattle roce was held in which King won invariably

4. There were numerous other sacrifices nitudes like sorituals for gaining cattle in war, ritual for having a son rituals for wrining land et.

5. Vedic people worshipped nature gods & were in order to becalm them. 6. In the Later Vedic Age, every householder used to keep a fire alter in his house for ritualistic purpose The planing of the society with cituals was used by the priestly class, i.e., He brahminas to extend their domination. Kings used to try legitimory by adhering to Friestly class & rituals. It widered the gulf between the priestly class of the Shudra's Sto on extent- Vaisly The system ensured constant circulation of resources - a system in which the priestly class never suffered. It can be concluded that further Codification of situals strengthered the domination & privales enjoyed by priestly class & she destitutes were further trodded upon. -> Granuel Wisa & Sul vishing Bud'd exchap

Amsc) The term second Wrbanisation in Indian sontext refers to the post later Vedic heriod, about 600BC Onwards. The various farometers which can be used to analyse the appropriateres of the term are ) The Janapadas' turned into Mahayanaladas. The value attoched to land as privately owner property grow. Big Kingdoms emerged with Concentrated population which expanded Considerably in the said heriod 3) Doureased Monetisation Refore the Mahajanapada period, almost nil evidences of a substantial monetary system are found. However in the Mahajanafrade heriod, various silver

Both the cults grew roughly at the same around of time & the propounders - Mahaveer & Buddha, respectively preached in local longuages. Thus, noturally there seems to be a lot of similarity in b/h the 2. However, there are some differences:

- 1) Buddhism preached about the importance of Middle Path whereas Jainism preaches extreme penence.
- 2) Puddha taught that in order to ochieve liberation one should be bree of desires while in Jainism this alone doesn't suffice & heronces are needed

Am 4c) The Magadha Empire, which had provided immense political stability had started to defenerate & was finally but to end in 1858 (by Pushyanitra Shunga. What follows was a forward of upheaval in East Indea yet the heriod from 200 BC +0300 AD is recognized as a prosperous period economica The reasons for economic changes & development in the said period are -

1) Nunismatries gives the accounts of various Coins issued by Indo-Greek rulers and as Menander, etc. The wins were pure in content d'signified l'onomie growth 2) Kushanas issued a great number of hure gold coins. With the emergence of Kushona Empire, silk route was leveryld with much more ease to trade with Central Haia & Sastern Swropo. Also, the gold com nives of bestral Asia some under the gray of subcontinent.

3) The trade via silk route & sea trade with home reached to greater hlights with Balonce of Trade in India's barour deveral accounts from Pliny the Elder Strabo's Geographia & from Periplies of the trithreen Sea point to the some. The Roman Writers Coment the fact that gold was flowing out of their country in want of inforts like silk textiles, spices, etc. Y' During the same period, Arab traveller Starting leveraging the Monsoon for Their trade with India & subsequently India's trade with Douth East Asia 5. Development of cultural centres o art such as Gandhara School of Art Mathura School of Art emerged which even today reflect the brushority of the times 6. Dwing this Leriod, gronts werebeing given by Vakataka & Satawahanas for development of Buddhist centres. Ajanta stards as the exemplary example of the some.

6. Tamil thic Shilapeddikeren shedslight on flowishing market of Madwai, Roman gold wins & depicts various items of trade like glass ware textile, perfume, dogs, etc.

Thus, the period 200 PC-300 AD holds special symptomic with regard for the some.

Ansyl) The society, especially in South India directly made transition to Megalithic Age from Neolithic Age This was in stark contrast with N-W 2 rdia where Bronze Age was flowrishing in full flight. Megalithic rulture Continued to exist late in the 1st Millenium B( & references to it are found in the Dangam Literature The large population is denoted by by boulders of stone sworounding the grave sites. Such trig stone boulders must have required a large population. In order to sustain the large population, tools available to the Megalithic Man were few. Assimilture featured prominently & so did food gathering, fishing & hunting. This is evident by various Megalithic sites like Maski Containing large Ash Mounds, which were hilt

- 5. Write short notes in not more than 150 words on each of the following:  $(10 \times 5 = 50)$
  - (a) "The status of women did not remain unchanged during the transition to the early medieval period."
  - (b) "Even though it has been said that Chola architecture is continuation of Pallava architecture, many differences could be noticed between these two."
  - (c) "It was in fact a unique phenomenon of the fourteenth century that court culture came in close contact with folk culture in India"
  - (d) "During the period of Vijaynagar and Behmanis, the state was very much linked to the trade."
  - (c) "Dadni system was nothing but a mean of exploitation in the later phase of medieval India."

The status of women has always renguned subject to the prevailing sour-economic & cultural Conditions. In the Dresent context: 1) The introduction of Islam & repeated Wrko-Afghen invasions laused an unstability d'inscrity in people's minds. - This porter resulted in further growth of evil prorties like Sati, purdan, Child marriage, etc 2) However, during this heriod, economy started to infrove from feudal one as trade & monetisation again got promoted. This created avenues for women also but
