

Human Resources

All of us are human beings. We serve the society in different ways. Some of us are going to serve as pilots. Some may be in the army. Some of us may work as an actor in any film or some of us may be musicians. Of course, engineers or doctors or teachers are also needed by the society which in a larger way can be considered a nation. So we become human resource for the society and the nation. Whenever the needs of a nation are not properly served because of the less number of skilled people in any field, it is said that the human resources are poor. So, the human resource is directly linked with human development.

Small families are always happy

Education is the main tool to develop human beings. It helps to build up human capabilities. There are other factors as well. Poor transportation, poor roads, poor communication facilities, less number of health facilities are some of the other factors which effect human development. You will notice that these are all interlinked and need human capabilities. Hence, education becomes the key factor. That is why education is very important to develop human resources.

It is easier to train educated people

Tips:

- Every citizen of the country is a resource for the country.
- Education is the main tool to develop human resources.
- Poor transportation, poor roads, poor communication facilities, poor health facilities are some of the factors which effect human development.
- Education is the key factor for human capability.