Scene at a railway platform

A railway platform is full of life when a train is about to arrive. There are waiting rooms full of passengers. The people in their gay dresses stand in queues. They buy tickets or platform tickets. The coolies carry the luggage of the passengers. Some passenger's chest with one another and some went to the tea stall and have refreshments. Some stood, before the book stall. There is great hurry. Passengers pick up their luggage and rush to the coming train. A few minutes after the departure of the train, the platform presents a deserted look.
