

Reported Speech

Reporting the words of the speaker in your own words is called reported speech.

Type 1. Statements

Steps to be kept in mind for changing direct speech into indirect (statements).

Step 1. The reporting verb is changed as under.

- (a) We 'say' something but we 'tell' somebody. Says to ..... tells.
- (b) Says ..... says.
- (c) Said to ..... told/asserted/stated/informed. (d) Said ..... said.

Step 2. Inverted commas are dropped and the conjunction 'that' is used.

Step 3. Change of personal pronouns and possessives.

Changing I, my, me, mine; we, our, us, ours (First-person).

(a) I said, "My mother is My best friend."

I said that My mother is My best friend.

(b) You said, "My friends are very helpful to Me."

You said that Your friends are very helpful to You.

(c) He said, "My friends are very helpful to Me."

He said that his friends are very helpful to him.

Note. These words refer to the speaker. So they change according to who the speaker is.

Step 4. If the reporting verb is in the present or future tense, the tense of the reported speech does not change.

Meera says to Mini, "Your teacher has praised you." Meera tells mini that her teacher has praised her.

If the reporting verb is in the past tense, the tense of the reported speech gets changed into the corresponding past tense as under.

is/are/am	→	was/were
was/were	→	had been
had been	→	had been
has/have	→	had
had	→	no change
do	→	did
did	→	had done
had done	→	no change
will/shall	→	should
(Shall might be changed into should as per the case)
may/can	→	might/could
could/might/should/	→	no change
would/ought to/used to must	→	had to

Step 5. Words denoting nearness of time and place are generally changed into words denoting distance.

Direct speech	→	Indirect speech

Now	→	then
This	→	that
These	→	those
Here	→	there
jo	→	before
Yesterday	→	the previous day
Tomorrow	→	the next day, the following day

Today → that day

Tonight → that night

Note. There are two situations where even if the reporting verb is in the past tense, the verb of the reported speech remains unchanged.

1. If the reported speech expresses a universal truth or a habitual fact.

- The teacher said, "Two and two make four." The teacher said that two and two make four.

- Ramesh said to the tourist, “Summers in India are usually very hot.” Ramesh informed the tourist that summers in India are usually very hot.

2. The reported speech describes a situation which still exists when the speech is reported.

- The stationmaster said, “Due to heavy rains, the trains are running late”.
- The stationmaster said that due to heavy rains, the trains are running late.

Type 2. Questions

A. If the reported speech is a question, the following changes are made. The reporting verb is changed into ‘asked/required’.

Says	asks A
Says to	asks

Said

asked

Said to

asked

B. The inverted commas are removed and If/whether is used. The question mark is removed and a full stop is placed. No conjunction is used while reporting wh-questions. The direct form is changed to indirect question form. Place the subject before verb in the reported question.

- I said to Meera, “When are your parents coming?”
I asked Meera when her parents were coming.
- Ramesh said to me, “Are you reading this book?”
Ramesh asked me if/whether I was reading that book.
- He said, “Will you come with me?” He asked if/whether I would go with him.

Type 3. Commands and Requests

If reporting commands and requests, the indirect speech is introduced by some verbs expressing commands or requests and the imperative mood is changed into the infinitive.

Step 1. The reporting say (said) is changed to order(ed)/request(ed)/advise(d)/command(ed)/encourage(ed) /shout(ed)/forbid (forbade), proposed, etc.

Step 2. The verb of the reported speech is changed into an infinitive and inverted commas are removed.

Step 3. Do not is changed to 'not to'.

- He said to his sister, "Please speak slowly." He requested his sister to speak slowly.
- The teacher said, "Keep quiet." The teacher ordered to keep quiet.
- He said to me, "Don't tease the animal." He advised me not to tease the animal. • She said to me, "Let us go for a picnic".
She proposed (or suggested) to me that we should go for a picnic.

Type 4. Exclamations and wishes

Step 1. The reporting verb said is changed to exclaimed, wished, prayed, etc. Step 2. The exclamatory form is changed into the statement form and the mark of exclamation is replaced by a full stop.

Step 3. The reporting verb is joined with reported speech with 'that'.

Step 4. All interjections are omitted and suitable adverbs or other expressive words are used.

What! Oh!	surprised
Alas! Ah!	sadness, grief, pity
Hurrah!	joy, happiness

Bravo! approval, cheered

- They said, "Hurrah! We have won the match." They exclaimed with joy that they had won the match.
- She said, "Alas! He is no more." A
She exclaimed with sorrow that he was no more.
- He said, "Good-bye friends." He bade good-bye to his friends.

Question 41.

You have learnt how to report questions from direct to indirect speech. Here is a paragraph with direct speech questions. Read them carefully and report into indirect speech. Rewrite the paragraph in the space given below. [NCERT Workbook]

Once an old man asked a young boy, "Who do you think are the most intelligent people?" The young man said in return, "Who do you think so?" The old man said, "How can sons and daughters be intelligent without learning from their parents?" The young man said, "How did you as a parent learn?"

The old man said, "Why are you hijacking my question by asking me back?" The young man said, "Didn't you know that you as a parent, now have learnt all the things on your own?" The old man said, "How do you say that we all learnt from others?" The young man said, "Why do you ask me about how to operate electronic gadget all the time?" The old man said, "Why can't I ask you because I have paid for the gadget you use?"

Answer:

Once an old man asked a young boy who he thought were the most intelligent people. The young man asked why he thought so. The old man further asked how sons and daughters could be intelligent without learning from their parents. The young man asked how he had learnt as a parent. The old man asked why he was hijacking his questions by asking him back.

The young man said if he hadn't known that he as a parent, then had learnt all the things on his own. The old man said how he learnt that they all learnt from others. The young man said why he asked him how to operate electronic gadget all the time. The old man replied why he couldn't ask him because he had paid for the gadgets he used.
